

Today was World Book Day, we promoted children to dress up as their favourite characters from story books. We also set up lots of different activities linked to the stories. We had a special guest speaker come to our nursery called Laura Henry-Allain, she read Jo Jo & Gran Gran goes to the farm. We then had fun popping bubbles. At the end of our morning, we got to meet Laura Henry-Allain with our families.

World Book Day

“Reading to children, even before they can understand words, teaches them to associate books with love and affection”